DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hart in view of Casmire.

There is disclosed in Hart a device for making ice cream, comprising: a base assembly F; a tray D supported by the base assembly and having first and second troughs; a cylinder assembly G rotatably supported by the base assembly and having first and second cylinders positioned within the first and second troughs; a cover assembly V supported by the base assembly; a scraper S; and a crank assembly L, M, N coupled to the cylinder assembly; wherein the cover assembly has notches to receive a shaft and gear of the crank assembly (see figure 4).

Casmire teaches the use of a removably supported tray 12.

It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art modify the tray arrangement of Hart with that disclosed in Casmire and arrange for it to be removable, in order to allow easier cleaning of the tray.

In regards to use of the device as a toy, such a phrase provides no structural limitations to the claims.

Conclusion

Art Unit: 1761
